BOWMAN GRAY SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

GRAY MATTER

1 9 9 7

WAKE FOREST UNIVERSITY

WINSTON-SALEM, NC

In appreciation of his dedication and commitment to the education of Bowman Gray medical students, and for his outstanding example as teacher, mentor, clinician, and adviser, we respectfully dedicate the 1997 Gray Matter to

DR. PATRICK OBER

Dr. K. Patrick Ober embodies the qualities most desired in a medical educator: dedication, intelligence, experience, kindness, a lively sense of humor, and a genuine interest in the personal and professional development of medical students. Dr. Ober has been a leader in medical education at this institution by serving as a mentor and teacher at all levels of training, from first year to fourth year. He teaches first year students patient interviewing during the Foundations of Clinical Medicine course. During second year, he serves as a mentor for Bedside Examination and is a frequent lecturer on endocrinology topics. Third year students meet with Dr. Ober regularly for student case conferences and lectures during their Medicine rotation. And for fourth year students, Dr. Ober serves as an invaluable advisor to those entering residencies in internal medicine. The extent and variety of involvement which he has chosen demonstrates his outstanding dedication to the students of Bowman Gray.

Dr. Ober received his medical degree from the University of Florida in 1974. He then trained at North Carolina Baptist Hospital where he completed a residency in internal medicine, followed by a fellowship in endocrinology and metabolism. Since that time, Dr. Ober has established a history of teaching, serving as assistant professor in 1979, associate professor in 1984, and professor in 1995. He is currently Director of Undergraduate Medical Education in Internal Medicine and Director of the Fellowship Program in Endocrinology and Metabolism. Most recently, he was appointed Section Head of Endocrinology in 1996.

His contributions to medical teaching have certainly not gone unrecognized over the years, as evidenced by an extensive list of honors: the Clinical Teaching Award (1983, 1987, 1992, 1994), the Basic Science Teaching Award (1993), the Award for Teaching Excellence (1984, 1993), the Tinsley R. Harrison Award for out-patient teaching of internal medicine housestaff (1995), and election to Alpha Omega Alpha in 1995.

Dr. Ober last received the dedication to the Gray Matter in 1985, and we are proud to honor him once again this year for his outstanding contributions to the education of future doctors at Bowman Gray. With gratitude and admiration, we dedicate the 1997 Gray Matter to Dr. Patrick Ober.

THE PRACTICE OF MEDICINE

The practice of medicine to most people refers to the years after training in which a physician, having already earned the MD degree, is licensed to prescribe medicine and care for patients. But the "practice of medicine" is arguably a better description for the four years of training in medical school. Each student undergoes a gradual and often bewildering transformation from layman to clinician which is founded in hard work and the daily practice of medicine.

From the first day, we are presented with limitless information — facts and figures, cadavers and cross-sections. Never absorbed completely on first exposure, the information must be "practiced", i.e. repeated and rehearsed. Add to this knowledge the introduction of clinical skills, which do not come naturally but must be practiced to proficiency. We learn to talk to patients, to ask questions, and to listen. We learn to use stethoscopes, ophthalmoscopes, otoscopes, and reflex hammers. We learn to observe, palpate, percuss, and auscultate. And we practice it — on each other and on patients — until the words and actions blend in a sequence which becomes second nature to us.

We practice procedures — drawing blood, starting IVs, performing lumbar punctures, and tying surgical knots. We learn to see chest x-rays and EKGs, not as whole entities but as the systematic sum of their parts. We then practice the integration of our knowledge and clinical skills to reach diagnostic conclusions and ultimately therapeutic decisions. We learn what tests to order and what they all mean. We learn indications and contraindications. We learn to take responsibility for our decisions, recognizing the uniquely powerful way in which we impact our patients' lives.

The practice of medicine includes our four years in medical school, but certainly does not end there. A career in medicine means lifelong learning with daily practice of our knowledge, skills, understanding, and responsibility. In this sense, our future practice in medicine is simply a continuation of the medical practice we have established here at Bowman Gray.

"As you learn to become a doctor, there is a frequent sense of surprise, a feeling that you are not entitled to the kind of intrusion you are allowed into patients' lives. Without arguing, they permit you to examine them; it is impossible to imagine, when you do your very first physical exam, that someday you will walk in calmly and tell a man your grandfather's age to undress, and then examine him without thinking about it twice. You get used to it all, but every so often you find yourself marveling at the access you are allowed, at the way you are learning from the bodies, the stories, the lives and deaths of perfect strangers."

Perri Klass, from "Invasions"

*"Where there is love of humanity, there is love of the art of medicine."
Hippocrates*

"The hardest conviction to get into the mind of a beginner is that the education upon which he is engaged is not a college course, not a medical course, but a life course, ending only with death, for which the work of a few years under teachers is but a preparation."
Sir William Osler

"To the student I would say, that however plain and simple may be our teaching, he must expect to forget much which he follows intelligently in the lecture-room. But it is not the same as if he had never learned it. A man must get a thing before he can forget it."

Oliver Wendell Holmes

"Morning rounds in the hospital. We charge along, the resident leading the way, the interns following, the two medical students last, pushing the cart that holds the patients' charts. The resident pulls up in front of a patient's door, the interns stop as well, and we almost run them over with the chart cart."

Perri Klass, from "Invasions"

"It's the humdrum, day-in, day-out, everyday work that is the real satisfaction of the practice of medicine; the million and a half patients a man has seen on his daily visits over a forty-year period of weekdays and Sundays that make up his life."

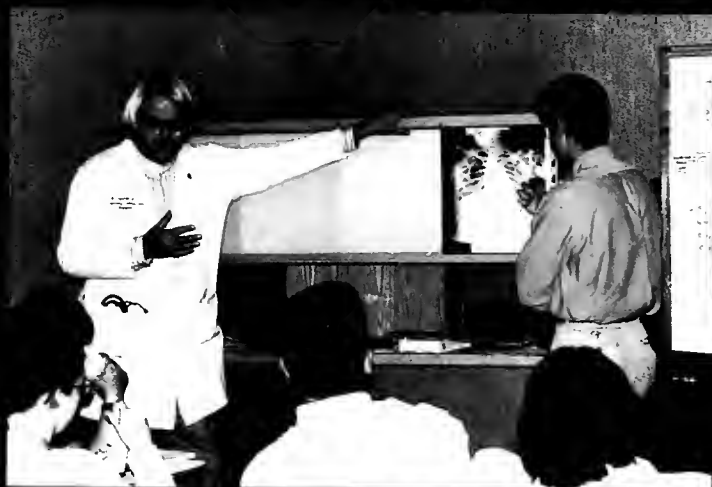

William Carlos Williams, from "The Practice"

"I remember that once in the dissecting room when I was going over my 'part' with the demonstrator, he asked me what some nerve was and I did not know. He told me; whereupon I remonstrated, for it was in the wrong place. Nevertheless he insisted that it was the nerve I had been in vain looking for. I complained of the abnormality and he, smiling, said that in anatomy it was the normal that was uncommon. I was only annoyed at the time, but the remark sank into my mind and since then it has been forced upon me that it was true of man as well as anatomy. The normal is what you find but rarely."

W. Somerset Maugham, from The Summing Up

"At the outset appreciate clearly the aims and objects each one of you should have in view — a knowledge of disease and its cure, and a knowledge of yourself." Sir William Osler

"The whole art of medicine is in observation, as the old motto goes, but to educate the eye to see, the ear to hear, and the finger to feel takes time, and to make a beginning, to start a man on the right path, is all that we can do."

Sir William Osler

"Learn to love the freedom of the student life, only too quickly to pass away; the absence of the coarser cares of after days, the joy in comradeship, the delight in new work, the happiness that you are making progress. Once only can you enjoy these pleasures."

Sir William Osler

"The practice of medicine is an art, not a trade; a calling, not a business; a calling in which your heart will be exercised equally with your head."

Sir William Osler

"The most essential part of a student's instruction is obtained, as I believe, not in the lecture-room, but at the bedside. Nothing seen there is lost; the rhythms of disease are learned by frequent repetition; its unforeseen occurrences stamp themselves indelibly in the memory."

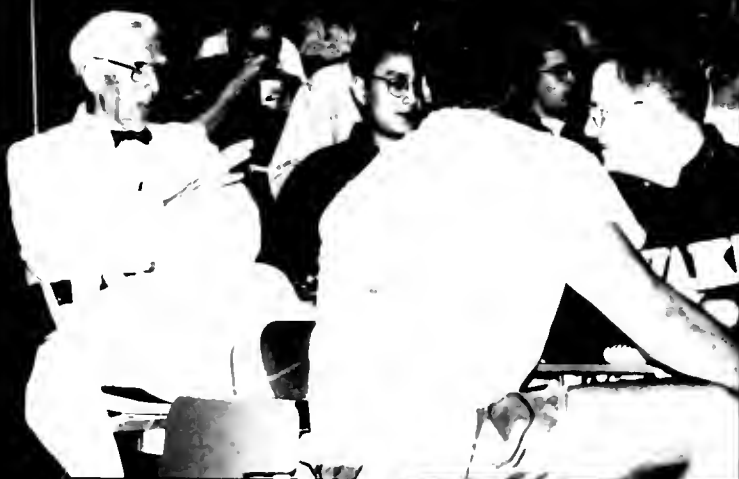

Oliver Wendell Holmes

"A first-rate clinician trains himself to do two things exceedingly well: to talk to his patients, and to listen to them."
Philip A. Tumulty, from "What is a Clinician and What Does He Do?"

"The phenomenal strides in every branch of scientific medicine have tended to overload it with detail. To winnow the wheat from the chaff and to prepare it in an easily digested shape for the tender stomachs of the first- and second-year students taxes the resources of the most capable teacher."

Sir William Osler

"No one has the privilege of knowing man so intimately, at times of such great personal moment, and under such highly sensitive circumstances, as the physician."

Philip A. Tumulty

CLASS OF 1997

fourth year students

Time was up. Pencils down. The fourth and final booklet of the USMLE Step 2 was at last complete.

And it was time to celebrate . . .

Post-Boards

On August 28, 1996, Medical Alumni Affairs hosted the annual Post-Boards Party, an elegant dinner and dance for the fourth-year class. Held at the Piedmont Club, the class enjoyed a buffet dinner followed by the music of the Party Animals. Thanks MAA!

The Best Thing About Fourth Year is . . .

The hours!
Nights off.
No weekends.

Being treated differently by attendings, housestaff, and nurses.

Knowing where to get free food.

No tests (or a lot fewer at least).

Medical school is finally fun!

Electives.

Having someone on the ward teams who is greener than you are.

Four words:
Twelve O'Clock Tee Time.

Being able to write orders without a co-sign.

Heart Station.

More time to spend with friends and family.

Hiking at Stone Mountain.

Going to the Dixie Classic Fair.

Reading fiction instead of pharmacology.

Waking up when it's light outside.

Doing the macarena at the Post-Boards Party.

Making a career decision.

Weddings and babies.

Mailing a pile of completed applications.

Knowing your way around the hospital.

Taking aim at your classmates in paintball.

Away rotations.

Weekend roadtrips.

Matching.

May 19, 1997.

March 19, 1997. Twelve o'clock noon. Anxious classmates gather by their mailboxes, each awaiting a future sealed in an envelope . . .

Match Day

The most important event in a medical student's career, Match Day is the culmination of four years of perseverance and hard work. At exactly noon on March 19, members of the Class of 1997 poured forward toward their mailboxes to retrieve the long-awaited results of the match. Amidst a mass of family, friends, and fellow classmates, they opened their sealed fares — to their delight and disappointment. Many lingered in Watlington Hall to discuss the outcomes: "Where are you going?" "Did you get what you wanted?"

Afterward the students met at the Hawthorne Inn for a reception in their honor. Accompanied by shouts and applause, each in turn announced the results of their match, followed by a special video message from class mentor Dr. Elizabeth Sherertz.

A long day of mixed emotions, Match Day ended with a class party at Chester's — a perfect time to celebrate and congratulate.

Tokai Exchange Program

Started in 1990, the Tokai Exchange Program is an opportunity for Japanese medical students at Tokai University to study in the American medical system, and vice versa. This year two students visited Bowman Gray — Megumi Tomita and Koichi Kosaka. Each student participated in six months of rotations at NC Baptist. Bowman Gray students also may study at Tokai, usually for two to four months.

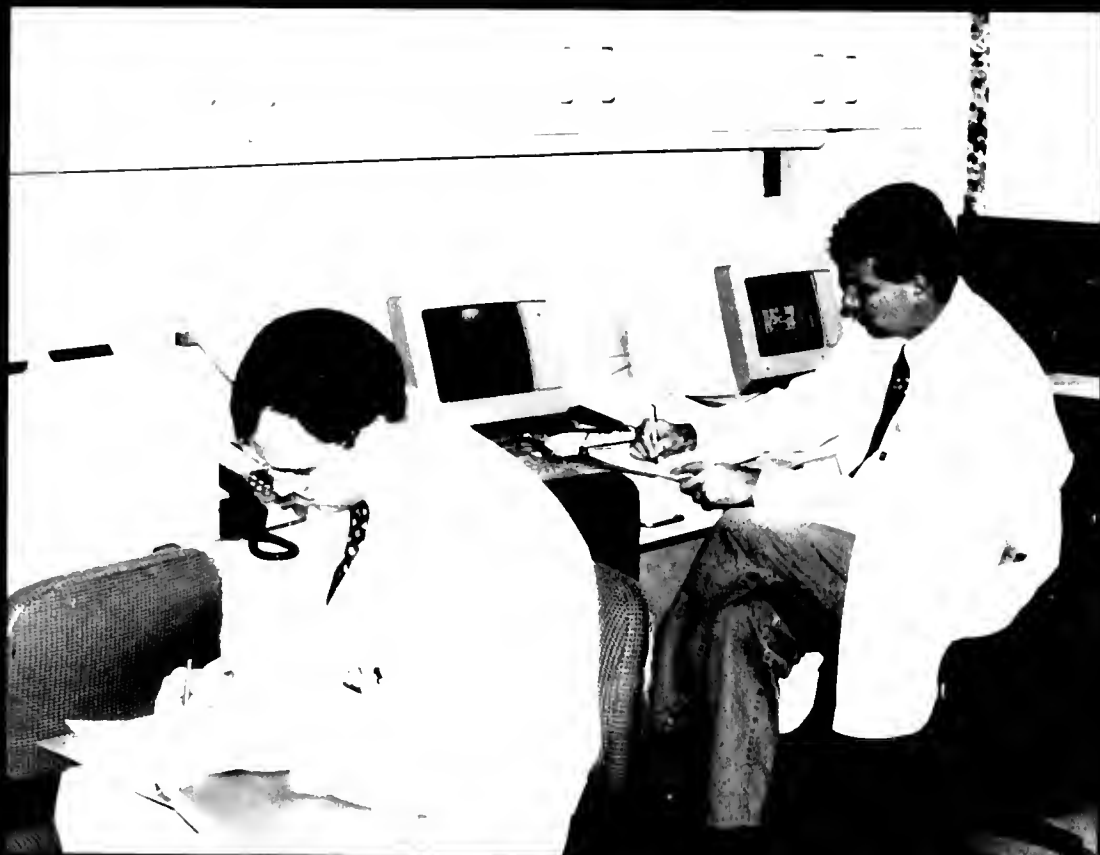

Meg Tomita and Chris Whang pose with Dean Patricia Adams at a reception honoring the Tokai Exchange students on October 7.

Julia Roos and Eugene Kim admire a certificate of recognition presented to Meg at her farewell reception.

Toby Cohen and Kyle Garner welcome Koichi Kosaka to Bowman Gray.

FRESHMAN ORIENTATION

On August 8, 1996, the North Carolina sun shone brightly to welcome the Class of 2000 to its first day of freshman orientation at Bowman Gray School of Medicine. This first day of orientation began with a pleasant welcome by Dean James Thompson, followed by introductions to Dr. Patricia Adams, the staff of the Office of Student Affairs, Dr. Cam Enarson, the financial aid staff, and the unit chairs of the traditional and parallel curricula, Dr. Pete Smith and Dr. Charles Eldridge. Students were given information about financial aid, student health, and various activities available at the school. After a full day, first-year students were welcomed by Dr. and Mrs. Thompson to a reception at their home.

On the second day of orientation, Dr. Liza Cariaga-Lo forced millions of neurons to fire during the administration of several tests and assessments. Then students spent time learning their way around the medical center, having ID badges made, touring Carpenter Library, getting their portraits taken, and receiving immunizations. The lunch hour was spent with new friends from the first- and second-year classes during the Big Brother/Big Sister luncheon.

After two full days of orientation to a new school, new curriculum, new faculty, and new friends, students enjoyed relaxing and dancing at Michael's during the All-School Party. And on Monday, real life as a medical student began ...

MEDICAL STUDENT RESEARCH DAY

Held this year on September 16, 1996, the 12th Annual Medical Student Research Day again celebrated the contributions of medical students to the many areas of research in medicine. The day began with a talk on nutrition research and cardiovascular disease given by guest lecturer Margo Denke, MD, followed by a poster display in the Commons Building. Students showed their posters to faculty and other students as they explained the results of their individual projects.

Winners of the poster competition were as follows:

First Place — Sam Yang, for his poster entitled "Identification of a Mid-Anaphase Checkpoint in Budding Yeast."

Second Place — Mark Hiatt, for his poster entitled "Assessing the Feasibility of Establishing a Telemammographic Network."

Third Place — Bill Schweickert, for his poster entitled "Protecting the Ischemic Spinal Cord During Aortic Clamping: The Influence of Cromakalim, an ATPk Channel Agonist, on Motor and Sensory Evoked Potentials in the Dog."

PRIMARY CARE DAY/RESIDENCY FAIR

On Thursday, September 26, 1996, students at Bowman Gray had an opportunity to learn more about careers in medicine through a single day event, comprised of Primary Care Day, a residency fair, and a panel discussion on health care reform. In recognition of National Primary Care Day, students learned about the variety offered by primary care careers from four distinguished speakers, all graduates of Bowman Gray: Dr. Jenny McLaurin (1985, Pediatrics), Dr. Paul Shackelford (1991, Obstetrics and Gynecology), Dr. Billy Rice (1989, Internal Medicine), and Dr. Allen Dobson (1980, Family Practice). After these talks, students spoke to faculty and residents about their career interests at the 3rd annual residency fair. Later that afternoon, a forum on health care reform was held in Babcock with a panel discussion led by Dr. Richard Jane-way, Dr. Allen Dobson, and North Carolina Senator Mark McDaniel.

FALL CONVOCATION

"Now the way of life that I preach is a habit to be acquired gradually by long and steady repetition. It is the practice of living for the day only, and for the day's work, Life in day-tight compartments."

A Way of Life

HALLOWEEN

HOLIDAY BALL

The 1996 Charity Holiday Ball was held downtown at the Millenium Center on Friday, December 6th. Bowman Gray medical students from first to fourth year donned festive attire for an evening of dancing and fun with friends. Entertainment was provided by Doug Clark and the Hot Nuts. Proceeds from ticket sales benefitted the Make-A-Wish Foundation.

AWARDS CEREMONY

AWARD FOR TEACHING EXCELLENCE

Dr. Jack W. Strandhoy

Dr. Strandhoy is well-known among students of the basic sciences for his extraordinary contributions to teaching at Bowman Gray. His lectures in renal physiology and pharmacology leave a longlasting impression into the clinical years, as third and fourth year students will tell you. Under Dr. Strandhoy's leadership, the pharmacology course provides a highly organized and thorough presentation of an immense body of information, making an overwhelmingly complex topic somehow simplified. Students describe him as "patient", "understanding", "kind", and simply "amazing."

As this year's recipient of the Award for Teaching Excellence, Dr. Strandhoy represents well the ideals of medical education. Congratulations!

CHARLES B. CLARK MEMORIAL AWARD

For Outstanding Service to the Senior Class

Dr. Elizabeth Sherertz

From our first days at Bowman Gray to our last, Dr. Beth Sherertz has been an outstanding advisor, advocate, and avid supporter of the Class of 1997. She opened her home and her office door to us, always making herself available when we had concerns. She listened with an open mind and acted as a superb liaison to the administration. She has supported us whenever we needed it (especially late nights before every exam!) and encouraged us with her smile and kind words.

Thank you for four years of kindness and support. You have our deepest gratitude!

Dearest Isaac,
Who would have ever thought that one very long conversation, at a banquet, between two people, would develop into such an extraordinary relationship? You will never know, just how dear, the place is that you hold in my heart. I have met many people, but few can hold a candle to your great strength, determination, and character. Despite how difficult the tasks may be in life, accomplish your goals. I love you and I am so very proud of you. Congratulations, Dr. Mitchell, it is long overdue!

DARIN N. KENNEDY

To Darin,

How do we put into words all those special feelings we have for you — love, joy, pride, hope? Of all the many things we would want to tell you, the most important is that we love you. The Lord richly blessed us when he gave you to us. We wish for you the fulfilling future you deserve and we pray that as you open the doors to your future, you have joy returned to you as you have given to others.

We love you

ANJALI BHATT

Dreams come true when one works hard with full dedication and commitment to the fulfillment of the dreams. You have just done that and accomplished a major goal with years of hard work and along that path made other significant achievements in personal growth. Your choice of profession as a Physician is a most befitting expression of your innate desire to be of service to humanity. It is heartening for the parents, who share all the joys of this happy occasion and wish you continued success in your lifelong dreams.

Mom and Dad

PAUL RIEKER

Dear Paul,

Congratulations. Your hard work, perseverance, and dedication have allowed you to obtain your goal. We are very proud of you. With God's support and your continual effort, you and Elizabeth will obtain your dreams.

Love, Dad, Mom, Karen,
Cynthia, and Elizabeth

KEITH NELSON

First nursery rounds

Dear Keith,

We are button-poppin' proud of all that you have accomplished since your arrival at this Medical Center — you have learned to walk and talk, to be a wonderful son, grandson, big brother and friend, and you no longer require diapers! (You did arrive a bit before the rest of your classmates, coming on December 27, 1970.) You have astounded and entertained us along the way with your many talents, interests and sense of humor. You have graduated from high school, UNC-Chapel Hill (which your father, a graduate of NC State, has come to accept), and now The Bowman Gray School of Medicine! Congratulations, Keith Hunter Nelson, MD, we couldn't be more proud of you! We wish you and the Class of 1997 — what a terrific and special group you are — all the best always!!! With lots of love, Mom, Dad, and Craig

DR. JAMES WELLINGTON ADAMS

We applaud you for your outstanding achievements in your chosen profession. You have reached your highest goals with loyalty, dedication, and commitment. We congratulate you, for we know it was diligent work and prayers, not luck, that brought you victory. We believe that you will be a doctor of great respect for all mankind.

Your Family — mom, dad, brothers, grandmother, sister-in-law, niece, nephews, aunts, uncles, and cousins

"Dreams Become Reality"

TICIA MYERS

What a story of love!

How proud we are! Your strong determination made dreams a reality! When confused, reach for God's clarity. When overwrought, seek God's calm. When disappointed, find refuge in His love. Believe in yourself; continue to care! Our love, encouragement, and prayers go with you, Dr. Myers. Congratulations!

Love and Kisses,
Mom, Dad, and Regina

MARC E. DALTON

Marc,

The moment you have worked so hard for these many years has finally arrived. You have made us so proud, and we, along with your brother, would like to congratulate you, pray God's continued blessings on your life, and say we love you very much.

Sincerely,

Dad, Mom, and Todd

MATT MCDONALD

We like the way you have grown. We are so proud of you.

Love,

Mom and Dad

JEROME PONDER

Jerome,

You cannot begin to understand the pride we feel in knowing you have taken a giant step not only for yourself but for our entire family. You have worked hard and smart, stayed the course, and kept your eyes on the prize. We only hope the support we rendered made some difference. We can now proclaim with much joy, our son and brother, "The Doctor"! Congratulations!!!

MICHELLE
MCFARLANE

Congratulations, you did it again!
You confirmed our preconception that you would succeed. Even in those days of disappointment you held your chin up and stayed on track. We love you. You deserve it!

Mom, Karlene, Aunt Nay, Granma and Granpa

Gaudeamus Igitur

John Stone, MD

Originally delivered in July 1982 as the Valediction address at Emory University School of Medicine, Gaudeamus Igitur retains its singular significance for the medical student, as we each anticipate our own day of commencement. The poem is a poignant description of that remarkable day of transition when we claim for ourselves the name "Doctor", and with it, all of the honor and responsibility that it implies.

A few explanations about the poem: Translated "therefore let us rejoice", the Latin title is the first line of a medieval song that became, over the centuries, a drinking song, a song of celebration, in the universities of Europe. The tune of the song was incorporated years later into the climactic portion of the "Academic Festival Overture" by Johannes Brahms (line 4). The form of the poem was suggested by a portion of the long poem, Jubilate Agno, by 18th century poet Christopher Smart, in which Smart praises his cat Jeoffrey (line 5).

I offer and dedicate this poem to my classmates - the Class of 1997. Thank you for the wonderful way that each of you has impacted my experience at Bowman Gray. Best wishes for the continued fulfillment of your goals. Megan K. Dishop

For this is the day of joy which has been fourteen hundred and sixty days in coming and fourteen hundred and fifty-nine nights For today in the breathing name of Brahms and the cat of Christopher Smart through the unbroken line of language and all the nouns stored in the angular gyrus today is a commencing For this is the day you know too little against the day when you will know too much For you will be invincible and vulnerable in the same breath which is the breath of your patients For their breath is our breathing and our reason For the patient will know the answer and you will ask him ask her
For the family may know the answer For there may be no answer and you will know too little again or there will be an answer and you will know too much forever
For you will look smart and feel ignorant and the patient will not know which day it is for you and you will pretend to be smart out of ignorance For you must fear ignorance more than cyanosis For whole days will move in the direction of rain
For you will cry and there will be no one to talk to or no one but yourself For you will be lonely
For you will be alone
For there is a difference
For there is no seriousness like joy
For there is no joy like seriousness For the days will run together in gallops and the years go by as fast as the speed of thought which is faster than the speed of light or Superman or Superwoman
For you will not be Superman
For you will not be Superwoman For you will not be Solomon but you will be asked the question nevertheless*

For after you learn what to do, how and when to do it the question will be whether For there will be addictions: whiskey, tobacco, love
For they will be difficult to cure For you yourself will pass the kidney stone of pain and be joyful
For this is the end of examinations
For this is the beginning of testing For Death will give the final examination and everyone will pass For the sun is always right on time and even that may be reason for a kind of joy For there are all kinds of all degrees of joy For love is the highest joy
For which reason the best hospital is a house of joy even with rooms of pain and loss exits of misunderstanding For there is the mortar of faith
For it helps to believe For Mozart can heal and no one knows where he is buried For penicillin can heal and the word and the knife
For the placebo will work and you will think you know why
For the placebo will have side effects and you will know you do not know why For none of these may heal For joy is nothing if not mysterious For your patients will test you for spleen and for the four humors For they will know the answer For they have the disease For disease will peer up over the hedge of health, with only its eyes showing For the T waves will be peaked and you will not know why For there will be computers For there will be hard data and they will be hard to understand
For the trivial will trap you and the important escape you For the Committee will be unable to resolve the question For there will be the arts and some will call them soft data

whereas in fact they are the hard data by which our lives are lived For everyone comes to the arts too late For you can be trained to listen only for the oboe out of the whole orchestra For you may need to strain to hear the voice of the patient in the thin reed of his crying For you will learn to see most acutely out of the corner of your eye to hear best with your inner ear For there are late signs and early signs For the patient's story will come to you like hunger, like thirst For you will know the answer like second nature, like first For the patient will live and you will try to understand For you will be amazed or the patient will not live
and you will try to understand
For you will be baffled For you will try to explain both, either, to the family
For there will be laying on of hands and the letting go For love is what death would always intend if it had the choice For the fever will drop, the bone remold along its lines of force the speech return the mind remember itself For there will be days of joy For there will be elevators of elation and you will walk triumphantly in purest joy along the halls of the hospital and say Yes to all the dark corners where no one is listening For the heart will lead For the head will explain but the final common pathway is the heart whatever kingdom may come For what matters finally is how the human spirit is spent
For this is the day of joy
For this is the morning to rejoice
For this is the beginning Therefore, let us rejoice
Gaudeamus igitur.
*1 Kings 3:16-27.
